Cato's Will Open Here On Thursday

Cato's store will become the newest member of the local business community when its doors open at 9:00 o'clock Thursday morning.

The grand opening celebration Thursday is the result of months of research, planning and renovation work by Cato Stores to provide up-to-the-minute shopping service to the people of the Calloway County shopping area.

The new Cato's is located next to Dale and Stubblefield in the former location of Everett's 5 & 10c store.

It will feature "in depth" selections of fashions for the modern woman, career girl, teenager, and boys, and infants.

Cato's decor and interior layout were designed by company architects to provide today's shopper with the ease and convenience found in the most up-to-date fashion centers.

"Instead of the old-time show windows and store interior being separated," W. H. Cato, founder of Cato Stores, pointed out, "the entire store is now the display area, allowing a

Puryear Club Bid Too High At $161,115

The only complete bid on construction of the new country club facilities at Puryear is too high, and directors of the club are negotiating with the bidder.

W. F. Cary, Puryear banker who is president of Henry-Calloway Recreation Corp., said the bid of Ed Weaver Construction Co. of Jackson was $161,115.

The Weaver bid and a partial bid by another firm were opened Thursday afternoon at Farmers Bank and Trust Co. at Puryear.

The corporation has some $200,000 for development of a golf course, swimming pool, tennis courts, club house and other facilities east of Puryear.

However, Cary pointed out that the sum also includes purchase of the land. Transactions recently recorded at the court house show the corporation spent $36,500 for three parcels of land.

The corporation won a $100,000 loan from the U.S. Farmers Home Administration to add to approximately $20,000 raised through membership fees.

Major Jordan Is Awarded Silver Star

Major James G. Jordan, son of M. O. Jordan of Browns Grove in Calloway County, has been awarded the Silver Star for gallantry in action, according to the letter received from B. B. Hood, Colonel, Chief of Staff, by the Major's father.

The letter said Major Jordan distinguished himself by heroic actions on May 27, 1968, while serving as executive officer of the 3d Squadron, 4th Cavalry in the Republic of Vietnam.

"When a friendly commanding officer was wounded, Major Jordan flew to the battlefield to assume command, quickly made an accurate estimate of the situation and redeployed the friendly forces against the numerically superior enemy force," according to Col. Hood.

"Observing an enemy flank force attempting to counter his new deployment, Major Jordan, with complete disregard for his personal safety, moved his vehicle through the intense enemy fire and destroyed the hostile flank force."

When a nearby APC was set on fire by the intense enemy fire, Major Jordan immediately moved to the APC and evacuated the endangered personnel," the Colonel said.

The letter from the Colonel said "His valorous actions contributed immeasurably to the success of the mission and the defeat of the enemy force. Major Jordan's personal bravery and devotion to duty are in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflect great credit upon himself, his unit, the 25th Infantry Division and the United States Army."

Major Jordan's wife and four children, Jimmy, David, Scott, and Ann, are residing in Wichita, Kansas, while he is serving in Vietnam.

Prior to entering the service Major Jordan and his family resided at Browns Grove and he was employed at the Liberty Bank at Mayfield.

No Opinion Held By 20 Per Cent Of Voters Poll Shows

NEW YORK (UPI) — Richard M. Nixon holds a sizeable lead over Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey in the latest Sindinger & Co. poll released today, and has increased it slightly since late August.

However, the poll indicated those who favor neither Nixon, Humphrey nor third party candidate George C. Wallace or who have no opinion now include more than 20 per cent of the electorate.

The poll also showed that although 17.8 per cent of those questioned favored Wallace, only 4.3 per cent thought he would win the presidency. This is significant, according to the Sindinger & Co. president, Albert E. Sindinger.

"The question is whether those who favor Wallace will vote for him," Sindinger said. He said the difference in percentages between those who favor Wallace and those who think he can win indicates "there will be a lot of soul searching" before most of those who back him vote for him in November.

He said the number of Wallace supporters who may shy away at the last minute make any idea of a "Nixon shoe-in" unrealistic at the moment.

Nixon's strength in the two Sindinger polls since the one made Aug. 30-Sept. 2 show an increase of from 33.7 per cent to 34.5. Humphrey dropped from 28.5 to 24.6, and the number of those with no opinion increased from 12.6 per cent to 14.3 per cent.

Wallace dropped from 19.7 to 17.4 per cent in poll strength from the August-September poll to a second study made Sept. 5-8, but increased to 17.8 in the one released today.

The latest survey sampled 1,866 adults on a projected voting basis of 116.6 million persons.

Humphrey Promises Direct Pipeline To Woo Youth

By JOHN HALL
BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Democratic presidential candidate Hubert H. Humphrey, trying to win back youthful dissenters, pledged today to give young people federal jobs and "direct pipeline" into the highest levels of national government.

On the road again after a two-day layoff, Humphrey continued to hit hard at a major objective of his campaign — to convince college students and young adults that he is a worthy successor to Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy and the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

He said students were right in wanting a greater role in shaping the policies of their universities.

The vice president said high education should be made "truly relevant" to the needs of the time by involving students in social service for academic credit. The academic maxim of the '70s, he said, should be "participate or perish — not publish or perish."

Addresses Students
Humphrey, in remarks at Canisius College here, announced the formation of a national university forum, to "guide me in my campaign and during my presidency if I am elected."

He also broke out two other new ideas to give students something to do: — A national program of "students in community service" which would make federal and private funds available to universities who grant academic credit to students for community service work such as

WASHINGTON — Sen. Thomas Dodd, D-Conn., arguing against an amendment to the gun control bill that would have exempted some ammunition from a ban on mail order sales of ammunition:

"This was the kind of ammunition that was used to kill President John F. Kennedy, our colleague, Robert F. Kennedy, and Medgar Evers."

PINE GROVE, Calif. (UPI) — Jacqueline Stewart, 19, a University of California sophomore, has dedicated a State Park here which will preserve the camping grounds of her ancestors who belonged to the Northern Miwok tribe of American Indians.

The new park contains a stretch of exposed limestone pitted with more than 1,000 small cavities made by the Miwoks in past centuries as they ground their corn and acorns into food. More than

by United Press International
Today is Tuesday, Sept. 17, the 261st day of 1968 with 103 remaining.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase.

The morning star is Mars.

The evening stars are Venus and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1787, the U.S. Constitution was completed at the Constitutional Convention in Philadelphia and signed by a majority of the 55 delegates.

In 1796, President Washington delivered his farewell address and warned the American people to avoid foreign alliances.

In 1939, Russia invaded Poland in World War II.

In 1962, nine new American astronauts were named to train for moon flights.

A thought for the day — British philosopher Bertrand Russell said: "A good society is a means to a good life for those who compose it; not something having an excellence on its own account."

Plea — CHEYENNE, Wyo. (UPI) — Cheyenne Fire Chief L. W. Warlaumont in 1890 told city officials members of volunteer fire departments in the then-small town were badly in need of rubber boots.

"I call your attention to the foremen-of-different-fire-companies asking for rubber boots," Warlaumont said in a letter to the city fathers. "Men are getting their feet wet at every fire, which causes colds and in some cases sickness. This could be avoided if their feet were protected."

Bug Honored — ENTERPRISE, Ala. (UPI) — There's a funny-looking little bug enshrined on a tall monument here which is a real conversation piece for passersby.

The insect is the boll weevil. For years he played such havoc with the city's chief crop of cotton that he forced abandonment of that crop for a new one — peanuts. This area now leads the nation in peanut production and residents were so appreciative of the change in the economy that they erected a monument in the center of the city to the boll weevil.

Volcanic Benefits — WASHINGTON (UPI) — Volcanoes are not unmitigated disasters. Despite the destruction they cause, says the National Geographic Society, they provide many benefits.

For example, they build mountains that draw rainfall and temper climates; create land areas such as Hawaii and Japan; bring soil-enriching minerals from the bowels of the earth, and in some parts of the world supply heat for warming homes or powering machines.

'Uncle's' Burial Place — ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — "Uncle Sam" is buried in Oakwood Cemetery, near Troy, N.Y., according to the New York State Department of Commerce. "Uncle Sam" Wilson was a meat packer who supplied the Army with beef during the War of 1812.

The government stamp on the beef — "U.S. Beef" — was taken to mean "Uncle Sam's Beef." Other government material stamped "U.S." was similarly interpreted.

David West Is Installed As President Of West Kentucky Regional Mental Health Board

David West of Mayfield was installed as president of the Western Kentucky Regional Mental Health and Mental Retardation Advisory Board during a meeting at the Holiday Inn, Mayfield, last week.

Other officers installed were: Dr. Glynn F. Bushart, Fulton, vice-president; and James V. Dorsett Jr., McCracken County, secretary-treasurer.

Reports from the group revealed that the community Mental Health Center of Western Kentucky has completed one full year of operation from Mental Health centers at Mayfield, Paducah, Benton, Murray, and Fulton.

A budget of $334,000 has been approved for the fiscal year 1969, the group was informed.

Services are now being provided for citizens of Region One, McCracken, Graves, Calloway, Marshall, Fulton, Livingston, Hickman, Ballard, and Carlisle Counties. A staff of 21 personnel is presently delivering services and will increase to 30. The current case load is 702. No person needing care has yet been delayed, the group was told.

and 319 inpatients have been treated in Lourdes and Western Baptist Hospitals. The Center is handling an average of 60 emergency calls per month. All patients discharged by Western State Hospital are now treated as required by Center staff.

Frank Groschelle, State Planning Officer for Mental Health Center, was the guest speaker. Groschelle spoke on state funds available to the Mental Health Center. He stated that money could be saved and a better job done by counties joining forces in the Regional Mental Health Association. He said that one county perhaps could not afford a psychiatrist, but ten counties together could afford one.

The most important project to get a program started is leadership, technical knowledge, and funds, Groschelle said. He said the local communities could provide the leadership; technical knowledge from the state; and funds from the federal government.

Giants Headed For Second McCovey Trying For First

United Press International
Willie McCovey is one Giant who is tired of finishing second. While the San Francisco club moves closer and closer to its fourth consecutive second-place finish in the National League standings, McCovey is doing something about improving his leadership image.

McCovey, who never has won a run batted in title even among the Giants despite a few some reputation as a slugger, pulled ahead of Chicago's Billy Williams for the NL lead Monday by driving in four runs in an 8-4 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Those four RBIs gave the towering first baseman a total of 97 for the season, his largest total in five years. He drove in 102 in 1963. McCovey already holds the NL lead in home runs with 34.

Giants Lead Reds
The victory gave the Giants a two-game edge over the Reds in the race for runnerup honors behind the St. Louis Cardinals, who were idle. The Los Angeles Dodgers blanked the Atlanta Braves 6-0 and the Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the Philadelphia Phillies, 6-1, in other NL games.

The Detroit Tigers clinched a tie for the American League flag by blasting New York, 9-1, while the Baltimore Orioles survived elimination by battering Boston, 8-1. Minnesota beat California, 4-3, in the only other AL game.

Giants fans Monday night witnessed the rare sight of Willie Mays engaged in a shouting match with two spectators.

Mays, in fact, had to be restrained from charging into the stands to confront the two hecklers, both Air Force sergeants dressed in civilian clothes. "Nice catch, Willie," they jeered from the front row after Mays made a spectacular catch in the fourth. "For a $100,000 bum you're finally earning your money."

No Hard Feelings
"There's no hard feelings," Mays said after the airmen were escorted from the park. "The guys can come back tomorrow." McCovey climaxed a five-run seventh-inning rally against Gary Noland and two relievers by lashing a tie-breaking, two-run single which accounted for the winning margin. Rich Robertson, who pitched two scoreless innings of relief, picked up his first major league victory.

Bill Singer scattered nine hits and climaxed a five-run sixth inning with a two-run double for the Dodgers. It marked Singer's seventh double of the season and helped him to post his third straight complete-game victory. Ron Reed 10-10 was charged with the defeat.

Gene Alley collected four hits and Donn Clendenon and Bill Mazeroski drove in two runs apiece for the Pirates major league complete game and scattered three hits, including Tony Taylor's solo homer.

Detroit Could Clinch Title Tonite With Win Over Yanks

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

The long wait may end tonight for the Detroit Tigers. With their magic number for clinching the American League pennant reduced to "one," the Tigers will face the New York Yankees while the soon-to-be-vaporized Baltimore Orioles play the Boston Red Sox.

Either a Tiger victory or an Oriole loss will clinch Detroit's first pennant since 1945. The 23 years are the longest any AL city has waited for a pennant since 1930.

The Tigers, who clinched a tie for the flag by routing the Yankees, 9-1, Monday night, will send Earl Wilson 13-12 against Stan Bahnsen 16-10 while the champagne-bottles wait in the clubhouse. The Orioles have scheduled a 20-game winner Dave McNally to pitch against Ray Culp 13-5 at Boston where they scored an 8-1 victory Monday night.

Films Show Tenn. Didn't Tie Georgia

ATLANTA (UPI) — The Atlanta Constitution reported today it has learned that a Tennessee receiver did not have actual possession of the football Saturday as he fell across the goal line in the closing seconds, scoring to help tie the Georgia Bulldogs, 17-17.

Georgia officials said they had no comment on the article, which said game films showed Vol Gary Kreis had one hand on the ball as he was falling to the ground, and the ball "hit the turf momentarily" before Kreis regained possession. "You don't win football games on Sunday," head coach Vince Dooley said.

Another Georgia spokesman said Dooley had seen the game films, but that he had nothing to say about them. "I think Kreis caught the

Dear Abby

Soft Soap May Get Him Into Tub

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband accuses me of having affairs with other men, but I swear I've never let another man touch me. He says he is sure he is right because I am cold as ice with him.

Abby, if he would only shave and take a bath maybe that would help some, but he goes to bed in the same dirty undershirt he's worked in all day. [He does construction work.] He shaves maybe every 3d or 4th day, and he seldom uses a toothbrush. The sight and smell of him kills all my desire to even kiss him. I am only 32. Is my reaction normal, or is there something wrong with me?

DEAR COLD: You are normal, but there could be something wrong with your husband. The husband-wife relationship is probably the most intimate of all human relationships, and in order for it to provide the ultimate in marital relations, cleanliness is indeed next to godliness. Tell him, Lady, tell him! But tell him out of love, not anger. A little soft soap sometimes goes a long way.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from "MORTICIAN'S SON" interested me because it sounded like my husband and me before we were married. I liked him a lot, but I didn't want to be a funeral director's wife either, so I was all for calling it quits before it got too serious.

Well, my husband-to-be decided that being a mortician wasn't as important to him as I was, so he went into another line and we were married. We've been happily married for 18 years now, and neither one of us has any regrets.

That was real cute the way you told that mortician's son that if his girl didn't "dig" his profession he should "bury" the romance, but I hope you print this to show another point of view.

DEAR HAPPY: Regardless of the choice in the beginning, we all end up with the funeral director in the end.

DEAR ABBY: "IN A QUANDARY" has set me to thinking. I am not asking you to betray a confidence, Abby, but that letter sounded like it could have been written by the wife of the man I am going with. Was her last initial "M"? This is very important as I would like to find out whether this man is lying to me or not. Thank you. HIS GIRL FRIEND

DEAR GIRL FRIEND: Sorry, I can't give you any information about the identity of "IN A QUANDARY." But here's a clue: A married man who is "going with" another woman is obviously lying to his wife. And a man who would lie to his wife would probably lie to his girl friend.

DEAR ABBY: I am expecting a baby within the next 2 weeks. My husband has agreed to take me to the hospital and stay with me for 6 hours. No more. He says if the baby hasn't come by that time, he goes.

Abby, this is our first child, and I'd feel so much better knowing that my husband would be with me until the very end, but I can't get him to change his mind.

What is wrong with a man who would make a decision like that? EXPECTING

DEAR EXPECTING: He's selfish. And a little sadistic.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69706, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

FOR ABBY'S BOOKLET, "HOW TO HAVE A LOVELY WEDDING," SEND $1.00 TO ABBY, BOX 69706, LOS ANGELES, CAL., 90069.

Foreign Flavor

Makes These Recipes Great

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

Now that September hopefully will bring along cooler weather, how about making a good resolution to try at least one new recipe each week? Add the successes to your file of favorites to serve when you're entertaining.

You couldn't find a better place to start than with one of today's foreign favorites.

Ratatouille is a French garden skillet of such good things as zucchini, eggplant, onion and tomato sauce with tomato bits.

GARDEN PATCH SKILLET (RATATOUILLE)

- 1 lb. onion sliced
- 1 c. pure vegetable oil or olive oil
- 1 lg. green pepper, cut in squares
- 1 eggplant, cubed or sliced
- 1 lg. zucchini, sliced
- 2 (8 oz. each) cans or 1 (15 oz.) can tomato sauce with tomato bits

- Salt
- Freshly ground pepper
- 2 tbsp. chopped fresh parsley
- 1/2 tsp. oregano
- 1/2 tsp. basil
- 1 clove garlic, minced

In large skillet, cook onion in oil until transparent. Add green pepper, eggplant and zucchini; cook 5 minutes.

Stir in tomato sauce with tomato bits; simmer, covered, 30 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Season with salt and freshly ground pepper; add parsley, oregano, basil and garlic.

Cook, uncovered, 10 to 15 minutes or until vegetables are done.

Serve hot or chilled. Serves 4.

Snack Tables That Stow Away

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

When it comes to large gatherings, most young homemakers find a buffet dinner is the easy-cut answer to entertaining. It is an eminently satisfactory answer, too, providing guests—men, in particular—don't have to do a plate-on-the-lap balancing act. Resting places must be provided for plates.

If the group is small, end and coffee tables will see you through. But, if you're invited to a mob, more help is needed. Snack tables come to the rescue. The ones pictured here store neatly and decoratively when not in use but, at a moment's notice, they're ready to serve when company comes calling.

THREE SNACK TABLES by Cosco join forces to make a coffee table. When not needed, they fit together in a very unique way and create attractive end table next to sofa.

JUST LIKE BLOCKS, these 16" by 16" cubes can be stacked for storage creating a tall, skinny bookcase. Styled by Thomasville, the cubes serve as small tables or stools.

WHEN STACKED, Cosco snack tables provide shelf space for magazines. Royalcoast tops are heat and stain-resistant.

Smuggling By Mexicans—A Way of Life?

Smuggling by large-scale operators uses all means of transportation, including fishing boats such as this.

By EMIL ZUBRYN
Central Press Association Correspondent

MEXICO CITY—“Everybody in Mexico is a smuggler,” mournfully complained Francisco Calderon, an assistant director of the Mexican Federation of Industrial Chambers. “I guess the compulsion to cross a frontier with contraband is a universal ailment which affects honest citizens. Now, I’m not talking about large scale smuggling by shady characters or gangs.

“It’s the penny ante smuggling of clothing, wine and liquor, small transistor radios, watches, fountain pens and scores of other easily concealed items that cross the border into Mexico in large quantities every day of the week.

“I suppose it’s considered like running through a red light by most of these amateur smugglers.

“Many of them just do it for kicks and feel there is no harm in bringing in—merchandise ranging from a couple pairs of socks, or candy, or imported canned goods to more expensive items such as jewelry, portable television sets, etc.”

Calderon said citizens do not realize that their small time smuggling causes, or can cause, serious damage to the Mexican economy and national industries.

“Besides,” Calderon fumed, “it’s illegal!”

THE BORDER smuggling gimmick practiced by most Mexicans who live in close proximity to the United States has been going on in its present form for more than 50 years, and intensified in the past 10 to 15 years as Mexico placed a ban on imports of so-called luxury items, or those already made in the republic.

However all Mexican citizens, frustrated by the inability to legally purchase U.S. high-quality merchandise and products, resort to the amateur smuggling

“There is an absence of national responsibility among many citizens,” mourned Calderon, “and that’s why the illegal contraband traffic flourishes and is increasing.”

A SPOT CHECK of Mexican citizens in such key centers as Mexico City, Cuernavaca, Puebla, Oaxaca and Acapulco gave the other side of the story. Irritated citizens, admitting for the most part their “criminal” smuggling, said all that would be necessary for them to give up the practice would be lifting of restrictions on imported products from toys to wines and liquor, to clothing and luxury goods.

“A reasonable duty of 10 percent or so should be imposed, and not the 150, 200, 300 percent or more that now is levied on the few foreign items still permitted entry,” one citizen said.

Citizens are short-tempered with Mexican industry, which always howls that it is being bankrupted by the citizen smugglers, and ask for even more restricting protectionist custom policies.

“All that is needed is that quality of Mexican goods be improved,” the citizen who prefers anonymity for obvious reasons stated.

Carlos Hallstein Rivas, of the Mexico City Chamber of Commerce, admitted that the smuggling activity could be ended if Mexican producers would show more responsibility in improving the quality of their products.

Business Briefs

Sper Wheat Growth
DAVIS, Calif. (UPI)—Plant growth regulators may increase grain production, University of California research shows. Milton D. Miller, UC agronomist, reports chemical sprays on plant foliage hiked wheat yields by as much as 28 percent.

There was some increase in protein food values of the wheat grains, he reported, and plant heights were reduced by several inches—an advantage to the farmer. The sprays tested are not yet available for commercial use.

Gap Narrows
NEW YORK (UPI)—Salaried workers continue to get longer vacations than hourly paid employees but the gap is rapidly closing, according to a nationwide survey of American industry by a management services firm.

Many blue collar workers now get three weeks’ paid leave after 10 years’ service, the same as most white collar workers, the study by Wofac Corporation disclosed. Some companies have wiped out any differences between salaried and hourly workers in length of service time requirements, according to the poll. One large employer in Minneapolis that gives two weeks to every one after two years has even “reversed the gap”—the blue collar workers get three weeks off after five years but white collar employees must wait six years.

Women Fill Manpower Need
DETROIT (UPI)—The answer to an anticipated shortage of office workers is women, report researchers of Kelly Services, national supplier of temporary help services.

Kelly points out that in 1967 nearly 7 million women worked in temporary jobs and one out of four women worked less than 35 hours a week at any one time. The company says that despite expanding use of computers and other business machines, clerical workers of all types will be needed.

New Cloth
LIMA, Peru (UPI)—Clothing manufacturers here claim that a new mixture of fiber, a combination of alpaca wool and synthetic material, produces a durable cloth that is inexpensive to produce. The alpaca is a wooly, camel-like animal, a cousin of the llama that is common in Peru.

Fired Water
DRESHER, Pa. (UPI)—Industry is taking the direct approach to heating water and other solutions. They’re sticking the flame right in it. Through a process called submerged combustion, industry is heating huge quantities of water and evaporating and concentrating chemical solutions. In Europe they’re using the principle to heat swimming pools.

A pioneer in the development of submerged-combustion system here, Selas Corporation of America, says the high-speed flame and gases it emits bubble up through the solution to warm it, or in more sophisticated applications the hot combustion gases are injected directly into the liquid. Because there’s nothing between the flame and the solution there’s virtually no heat loss.

BOATING

By JACK WOLISTON

NEW YORK (UPI)—From the ditty bag: Mercury Outboard’s 1969 line introduced recently features an all-new 80-horsepower, four-cylinder motor and greater corrosion resistance for all models. Mercury now offers 10 different power ratings ranging from four-horsepower to 125. Company President E. C. Kiekhafer has this to say of the new line:

“Significant improvements are more miles per gallon and more miles per hour. For instance, the 80-horsepower Merc 800 will outrun and out-accelerate the competition’s 85-horsepower models while retaining fuel economy in miles per gallon comparable to the competition’s 55-horsepower models.

The Miami area will have two major boat shows exhibiting the new line of marine products for 1969. The first, to be held Nov. 15-19, is a brand new one, the Miami Dinner Key Boat Show, and will be staged at the Dinner Key Auditorium which previously housed the Miami International Boat Show. The latter exhibition has moved to Miami Beach Convention Hall, site of the recent Republican National Convention, and will be held this year Feb. 21-26.

Industry sources report that Outboard Marine Corporation is dicker with Craig Breedlove to drive one of its Evinrude or Johnson rigs in the Outboard World Championship Nov. 30-Dec. 1 at Lake Havasu City, Ariz. Breedlove, who holds the land speed mark of 601 miles per hour, was tossed out of his boat when he competed in the event last year at the Colorado River resort city, but apparently OMC experts are convinced he should be on the team.

One of the big attractions at the current Marine Trades Exhibit in Chicago’s International Amphitheatre is Thunderbird Products Corporation’s experimental 32-foot gas turbine powered Formula 322. The craft has a single United Aircraft ST6A gas turbine engine rated at 450 horsepower hooked up to a Pratt & Whitney Aircraft S36 waterjet pump.

A novel aspect of the turbine boat is that it has no propellers or rudders. Steering and reversing are accomplished by a mechanism that deflects the high velocity water jet. The boat, which is said to have speeds in the 45-mile-per-hour range, still must undergo extensive ocean testing.

One of the best times for the 1,086-mile trip down the Mississippi River from St. Louis to New Orleans was recorded recently by Lou Cooley and his wife, Dorothy. Their running time in the 20-foot boat powered by four 105-horsepower Chrysler outboards was 20 hours and 8 minutes, or an average of about 53 miles per hour. They had planned the trip non-stop but were forced to stop overnight in Helena, Ark., when their pit crew, traveling in three cars, hit heavy traffic and could not keep up.

Strictly a one-of-a-kind craft is the 75-foot Golden Dolphin, a diesel-powered craft operating out of San Francisco that affords luxury accommodations for 16 guests, three crewmen—and two whales and six porpoises. The 123-ton triple-decker, launched a few months ago, is primarily a specimen gathering and research ship for the new Marine World aquarium complex at Redwood City, Calif.

Symphony Series
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The San Francisco Symphony will perform in eight different series this year at the city’s Opera House.

The symphony will present 34 guest artists on its subscription series beginning Dec. 4. One of the scheduled guest conductors is the famed Seiji Ozawa.

CAMPAINING gets pretty cheesy for Spiro T. Agnew as he shoulders a 15-pound Provoline while passing through Oshkosh, Wis.

10 CHILDREN ORPHANED BY HEADON AUTO CRASH—These 10 children were orphaned in Madera, Calif., when Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Morris were killed in a headon auto crash. When The Rev. Salvatore Bentivegna of St. Joachim’s Catholic church broke the news to them, they pleaded, “We want to stay together, Father. Don’t let them separate us.” The children are (front) Judy, 16; Kathleen, 17; Edward, 3; (from left, rear) Michael, 10; Jeffrey, 8; Linda, 15; Carole, 14; twins Robert and Roberta, 11; Theresa, 12.

Safer Light Post COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — The car rounded the curve at 40 miles per hour and slammed into the steel light post. The post tumbled and the car escaped with minor scratches. Even its headlight remained intact.

The collision was on Texas A and M University's test ground and the post was a new break-away type being developed. The A and M highway research organization hopes such posts will reduce damage and injuries in auto-post accidents.

Dr. Thomas C. Edwards said the posts include special slip joints that hold up against wind and storms but give way when hit by a vehicle.

CHAS. ELDRIDGE . . .

spring, he was named director of the newly-created Department of School Relations.

A real "pro" at selling the university, he or a representative of his office last year told the Murray State opportunity story to 6,646 students representing 218 high schools. They also spoke to the entire senior class in 78 area high schools and participated in college career day and college night programs in 218 others. They also found time to write 8,692 letters to seniors attending career programs, inviting them to the campus. A mountain of 1,950 letters of inquiry also were handled.

Eldridge also is an active member of all the student aid committees on the Murray campus. Because of his close contact with school officials, his first-hand knowledge of the background of a boy or girl often determines whether or not a scholarship, loan or campus employment is approved.

The son of the late Otis L. Eldridge and Mrs. Lora Eldridge of Murray, Eldridge was born on a farm near Hamilton on the Tennessee River in Calloway County.

He graduated from New Concord High School in 1942 and enrolled at Murray State that summer only to see his college career abruptly halted when he was drafted into the Army a few months later.

While on a training exercise at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., he was accidentally struck in the back by a machine gun tripod and so badly injured he was hospitalized for almost a year, during which time he underwent two major operations.

Given a medical discharge in October, 1945, he returned to Murray to spend the next three years recuperating from the injury.

In 1948, he re-enrolled at Murray State, graduating in 1952 with a bachelor of science degree in agriculture.

He then began an 11-year vocational agriculture teaching career at the Murray University School. During this period, he also earned his master's degree in agricultural education at the University of Kentucky.

While at the University School, the Future Farmers of America chapter, which he sponsored, became one of the most outstanding in the country, receiving national ratings on five occasions and winning the FFA's coveted Gold Emblem Rating three times.

Consistently, the top class officers at the school were members of the FFA group. Many went on to earn advanced degrees in college, and a number have received doctoral degrees, or soon will complete doctoral programs, in agriculture and other fields at several of the nation's major schools.

"This is the big thrill you get from teaching and working with young people," he says, "seeing them go on to the great things and feeling that you had a small part in starting them in that direction."

Eldridge relishes an opportunity to help a young person get to college. There are many teachers in the schools of this area who are living examples of his efforts in this area.

"I recall the case of one young lady," he said, "who had applied for a scholarship. We offered her one of $150, but she turned it down."

"Later, I talked with her school principal and found that not only was her father dead but that she and her mother lived on an extremely low income."

"In re-checking her application, we noticed she had listed the value of her home at $375, and this I had to see. So, I went to the home and found that was just about right. Her truly was a poverty case, but the young lady had a lot of characteristics we like — among them pride and determination."

"She and her mother actually were living on $600 a year. That was all the income they had and they got this by taking in washing and ironing."

"As a result, we were able to find enough work on campus for this young lady to enable her to enroll at Murray. She went on to graduate in three years, and today is married and doing a wonderful job teaching in a West Kentucky high school."

"Yes, you can say I'm a salesman," he said thoughtfully, "and I am thoroughly sold on the fact that our work is important."

"If it wasn't that young lady never would have had the opportunity we were able to offer her. There is no telling where she might have ended up. Because we were able to help and direct her at Murray, she is making a worthwhile contribution to her community."

tutoring underprivileged children. The program also would grant scholarships and internships for students who participate in rebuilding communities.

A "youth talent bank" in the federal civil service commission, which would "recruit dynamic young people for public service and put them in positions where they can affect government action."

Fight Crime
Before leaving Washington to start his second week on the campaign circuit, Humphrey proposed a national "mobilization" to stamp out crime.

His statement was coupled with a 40-page report by his campaign task force on order and justice, headed by Harvard University Prof. James Q. Wilson. The documents represented a determined Humphrey effort to offset Richard M. Nixon's attempt to blame the administration for the nation's soaring crime rate and riots in the city streets.

"The Rap Browns, the Stokely Carmichaels — extremists of the left and of the right — will not have their way and we will not allow them to terrorize or stampede Americans or cause us to lose our sense of perspective," Humphrey said.

But at the same time he said it is "not a time for more fear-mongering, slogans or empty promises." And, in an obvious reference to Nixon and his Republican running mate, Spiro T. Agnew, Humphrey condemned "irresponsible attacks" on the courts.

Volunteers
Are Honored
At Ceremony

The Red Cross Volunteers (formerly Gray Ladies) were honored at a Planning Ceremony Sunday afternoon at the community building on Ellis Drive. A large group of citizens, hospital board members, and Red Cross directors, as well as families and friends of the Volunteers were present for the recognition of service rendered to the Murray-Calloway County Hospital and Convalescent Ward by these ladies.

Mrs. Ann Hays, Chairman of Volunteers, presided. Bill Threet, minister of the 7th and Poplar Church of Christ gave the invocation. Lester Nanny, Calloway County Red Cross Chairman, announced that the uniformed volunteers had contributed 7,321 hours to the hospital program during the past year. Mrs. Lola James represented the hospital administration and addressed the group regarding the appreciation of the hospital staff for these services. Others commenting on the program were Leonard Vaughn, who serves on both the Hospital Board and as a Red Cross Director, and Mrs. Jean Blankenship, Red Cross Chapter Executive. Mrs. Dorothy Higgenbotham represented the hospital nursing staff.

In addition to those Volunteers who received their one-year pins, there were several who were recognized for several years' participation. Mrs. Juanita Spiceland and Mrs. Clyzel Fawcett received 5-year pins. Mrs. Lucille Kelly received a 7-year pin. Mrs. Della Taylor and Mrs. Juanita Lynn were awarded 8-year pins, and Mrs. Susie McDevitt and Mrs. Ann Hays received pins denoting 14 years of service as Red Cross Volunteers.

Following the brief ceremony refreshments were served to the group.

Officers for next year are President, Mrs. Lillian Shewell; vice-president, Mrs. Jo Miller; and secretary, Mrs. Sally Henson.

and to society in general.

"After all, isn't this the true test of higher education?" Eldridge is married to the former Kate Houston of Murray and they have two children. The oldest, Charles Edward, graduated from Murray State with honors in 1964 and is now a senior in the University of Louisville School of Medicine. The other, Deborah, 15, is a sophomore at the University School at Murray.

Like most salesmen, Eldridge's hobby is his work. "When he isn't extolling the advantages of Murray State, he is working with his cattle and other farm interests on his 55-acre farm three miles south of Murray."

He also is an elder in the University Church of Christ at Murray.

tion," Forgy said. "But we will look into each one very carefully."

He gave hearty endorsement to the recommended change in the accounting system, claiming the current system, adopted in 1936, was "simply not responsive to the demands of today."

"The new system is related to program accounting. It tells you where you spend your money and whether you're getting your money's worth," Forgy said. "It will make for more precise budget making."

While the change in the accounting system was "the most far-reaching recommendation," according to Forgy, he also appeared pleased about the new role the Finance Department is to play in state government.

Cites New Rule
In fact, one recommendation called for the name of the department to be changed to "Finance and Administration."

"The Finance Department is supposed to be the managing agency for all of state government, but it simply has not acted in that capacity in the past," Forgy said.

The task force, made up of 200 businessmen, was created by Gov. Louie B. Nunn and charged with the responsibility of bringing more efficiency to governmental operations.

Other recommendations for the Finance Department included:

Centralize Computers
—Centralize the computer operations of the state and cut down the number now used by departments. About half of the state's 22 computers would be affected, Forgy said. Three computer centers would be created.

—A new division of planning and budgeting should be created within the department, increasing the number of departmental divisions to six.

—A uniform payroll system, to be operated centrally for all agencies, should be developed.

—All present lease contracts should be reviewed and the 30-day cancellation clause should be abolished in favor of lower rentals.

Most of the 65 recommendations were aimed at consolidating departmental operations and curtailing the nickel-and-dime expenses that Christen has been attacking since taking office.

State vehicles, for instance, use credit cards and purchase gasoline at retail prices. The task force concluded that, with 1,100 vehicles, the state could negotiate a discount rate.

"It's impossible to estimate the savings at this time," Forgy said. "We know we'll save $30,000 a month by centralizing our computer operations, but the time when savings become apparent is when you sit down and make up your next budget."

That will be in about 18 months.

customer to take in the whole store at a glance."

"Cato's is proud to be taking part in the growth of such a progressive and friendly community as Murray," Mr. Cato added. "The store will be staffed by local folks who can give that personal service which is our trademark."

Cato Stores was founded by Mr. Cato in 1946. It operates stores in eight Southeastern states. The company's modern central offices and warehouse in Charlotte, N. C., enable it to efficiently process merchandise arriving daily from more than 1500 suppliers, and to fill daily orders for each store.

Mr. Cato said, "Our buyers and fashion specialists consult daily with the nation's leading manufacturers to acquire for our customers the latest styles and the best quality. Our customers benefit two ways — they see new fashions which arrive almost daily, and the savings of quantity distribution are passed on to them."

Mr. Cato began his merchandising career as a youth in his home town of Ridge Spring, S. C.

He recently recalled, "The expansion of our company has largely been achieved by remembering that the best interests of our customers are served by an unvarying principle: Sympathetic understanding of our customers' desires for fine quality, smartly styled apparel at fair prices, with liberal exchanges and refunds — satisfaction to each and every customer is guaranteed — and unfailing courtesy to everyone with whom we deal. We have combined the advantages of large scale merchandising, which means additional savings to our customers, with the atmosphere of an individual store."

which carried them thousands upon thousands of miles. Most of the years were spent traveling—first in a truck, later in a custom-made van. In the early years, they took their three children along. Beginning in 1951, their annual concert tours took up the greater part of a year's time. A typical tour included over 100 concerts and some 40,000 miles.

Last year, they completed a concert-playing tour around the world.

Their experiences were related in Neal's 1958 autobiography, "Wave As You Pass," which became a best seller. The title was taken from the sign which for years adorned the back of their concert bus.

Their career was the subject of a "This Is Your Life" television program on NBC, and they also were featured on CBS-TV and in several national magazines.

As their career matured, Nelson and Neal became intensely serious about their music. They pioneered in the discovery of classical duo-piano works which had been lost. In 1966 they performed the American premiere of the only known piano duet composed by Chopin. At a concert in Paris in 1962 they played the American premiere of a long-lost composition by Mendelssohn.

They won doctorate in music from Mount Union College in Alliance, Ohio. They became contributing faculty members of several colleges and universities, giving lectures and demonstrations.

Newsweek magazine devoted almost a full page to the pair in 1965. It included personal glimpses in an interview with Neal which revealed the changes in his musical philosophy: "I wish to please only myself," he said. "At a concert I have one experience, the audience has another. I've stopped asking what it is they get out of it."

The article also pointed out that the sign on the rear of the concert bus had been changed. When once it read "Wave As You Pass," it now read "Private."

Nelson and Neal also developed a number of business interests. They were authors of a piano study series published by their own firm, Manor House Press. Another subsidiary, Otto Kapell Co., is a concert management business for several prominent artists.

The publishing firm bears the name the Neals gave the ante-bellum home at 510 Hudson Ave. which they renovated.

Last year, Neal was one of 15 Tennesseans appointed by Gov. Buford Ellington to the new Tennessee Arts Commission. He and his wife were generous in their support of the Community Concert Association.
